Re: Torrey Sandstone Quarry, S/055/016, Wayne County, Utah

Dear Mr Hedberg:

In your correspondence dated March 26, 2004 you issued a deadline for the financial security and for the Notice of Intention to Commence Large Mining Operations at our Torrey, Utah Quarry of April 30, 2004. Although we made the deadline for the financial security for the large mining operation, we did not make the deadline for the Notice of Intention. This was due to my oversight. I had been so concerned with trying to find a bond that I just skipped right over the Notice of Intent requirement. For whatever reason, I had it in my head that since activity had been suspended at the mine, that the old Notice of Intention would be valid, but in discussions with Lon this morning, I understand that our previous Notice of Intention is for a small mining operation, not a large mining operation. My apologies for the misunderstanding and assumption on my part.

I respectfully request an extension for the Notice of Intention to Commence Large Mining Operations. I ask that a 60 day extension be granted. I request the 60 days, due to the fact that I am not experienced at preparing Notice of Intentions. I have only prepared Notice of Intentions for small mining claims up to this time and in looking over the paper work, there is much more involved in the Notice of Intentions for large mines. Much of the work will fall on my shoulders, and I want to do it correctly and accurately.

Thank you in advance for your understanding of my short-coming. Thank you for your consideration. I will begin work on the Notice of Intention today. Please call with any questions or concerns. (801) 747-7107

Warmest regards,

Glenda Burningham
